What Addie Gilmour Told a Medical Student.

Additional Remains are Taken Out of the Bay.

A Clue to the Non-union Dynamiter—The Nevada County Robbers Cornered—Good Prospects in Arizona—Mrs. Reams Divorced.

By Telegram to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The remains of Addie Gilmour, the girl who is supposed to have been murdered and cut up by Dr. West, are being found piecemeal. Today there were found in an ocean floating in the bay near the Berkeley shore, two arms and hands, the thighs and calves of the legs, the spleen and intestines of a human body. Wrapped up in the intestines was a woman's purse, and several hair ornaments. On top of the pieces of flesh were pieces of iron to keep them down. There is no doubt but what these are the fragments of Addie Gilmour's body. Previous to this time only the head and one foot of the missing girl had been found.

The purse, hat pins and other ornaments found were identified by Miss Emma Gilmour as belonging to her sister.

The preliminary examination of Dr. Eugene F. West commenced in Police Court today. The courtroom was crowded, and a squad of police had to be detailed to clear the corridors of the City Hall, in order to give access to the building.

The dead woman's father, who was the first witness, and he testified in regard to visiting Dr. West to ascertain the whereabouts of his daughter. The witness was about to relate the confession which West made to him that the woman had died in his office, but the court refused to permit this testimony to be given, as Gilmour admitted that before West made the confession he (Gilmour) had told him that he would not be punished.

D. B. Plymire, a medical student, testified that he had known Addie Gilmour for some time, and that she had told him in last July that she had decided to have an unlawful operation performed. He knew that she visited West for some time, and that she had visited her in West's office, and the girl had told him that in West's presence that the operation had been performed, and that it was successful. Two days later he again visited West's office and found that Addie Gilmour was gone. The police, in the case of Dr. West, today, found in a box of rubbish two buttons from Addie Gilmour's jacket. These buttons correspond with those found with the remains of the body in the ocean washed ashore this afternoon at Oakland. The police consider this conclusive evidence that the body of Addie Gilmour was cut up in Dr. West's office and not taken from the office intact, as his defense maintains.

A CLEW FOUND.

The Police on the Track of the Union Dynamiter.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Two hours before Curtin's non-union sailor boarding-house was blown up on Saturday night, a man dressed as a sailor called at the Grand Central Hotel and asked if he could leave a valise there. The request was granted, and the man, who the clerk of the hotel became suspicious, and opened the valise. In it were thirteen half-pound sticks of dynamite, a box of fulminate mercury caps, half a dozen fuses, a can containing a liquid labeled terroite, several saws used for cutting metal, and a sharp knife. On the valise was the name Axel Larson. A copy of the Coast Seamen's Journal was also in the valise.

Lorenson is on the books of the Seamen's Union as a member, but the officers of the union say they do not know where he is, and that they have not seen him for five months. The police believe they have found the outfit of the man who caused the explosion.

John Curtin, Jr., one of the victims of the dynamite explosion of last Sunday morning was discharged from the Receiving Hospital this morning. He is improving very fast, and will recover. He was taken to his home on Beale street.

Charles Bernard, the other living victim, is still in the hospital. His sight and hearing are gone, and his limbs are very badly burned. Police Surgeon Sommers says that Bernard may live, but his condition at the present time is critical, and blood-poisoning may set in at any time.

Sorenson came here from New York on the ship Susquehanna, and was paid off last April. He is a Norwegian, and his description tallies with that of the man who left the valise. He joined the Sailors' Union last April, and it was not until after this that the several attempts were made to blow up ships employing non-union men. According to the stories told on the waterfront, Sorenson is a confirmed dynamite crank, and was always talking dynamite and anarchism.

SORENSEN ARRESTED.

STOCKTON, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Alex Sorenson, answering the description of the man wanted by Chief of Police Crowley of San Francisco as to the owner of the valise found there which contained dynamite, was arrested here this evening on the schooner Maria Nelson, which was loading hay, and which was ready to leave for San Francisco. The police believe he is the man wanted in connection with the fatal explosion, but he says he has not been in San Francisco for two weeks.

He says he knows nothing about the valise found, and that it is not his. The arrest was made on a telegram received from Chief Crowley saying that Sorenson was on the schooner here. Sorenson says he has been here a week. He was found in a saloon in the levee, and was arrested by Detective Carroll and taken to jail.

GOOD PROSPECTS.

Arizona Live Stock and Gold Mines Showing Up Well.

YUMA (Ariz.), Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) The timely and well-distributed rains during the past three months have given an abundance of feed for live stock. Cattle are in excellent condition, and are being shipped into California at very fair prices. Considering the drawbacks of the past few seasons, live stock is in excellent condition.

Gold mining throughout Arizona has received a new impetus since the decline of silver. Never in the history of Arizona, have so many inquiries been made for good prospects, and never has so much prospecting and development work been done. Water and fuel are abundant, and the hitherto dry sections are affording much scope for further discoveries.

Silver mines are holding their own, but Eastern and European capitalists are seeking good gold properties instead of silver investments. The coming winter promises to be the best in many years.

CHURCHMEN IN COUNCIL.

Meeting of the Convocation of the Episcopal Church.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 27.—(Special.) Tuesday evening the semi-annual meeting of the Convocation of Southern California was called for the preliminary evening services and conference in Trinity Church at Santa Barbara. There were present in the church, Rt. Rev. Bishop Nichols, D.D., Rev. Dean Restarick of San Diego, and Rev. W. R. Taylor of Los Angeles. Evening prayer was read by Rev. W. Lacey. Among other clergy present in the choir and body of the church were: Rev. W. H. Ramsey of Santa Barbara, Rev. W. B. Burrows of Santa Ana, Rev. M. C. Dotter of Riverside, Rev. A. S. Clark of Los Angeles, Rev. A. Fletcher of South Riverside, Rev. W. U. Shearman of Sierra Madre, and others.

The subject of the evening conference was on "Lay Readers and Their Work." The Rev. W. H. Ramsey, in a very exhaustive and comprehensive manner by the dean of the convocation, Dean Restarick, who has been eminently successful in his efforts to bring about a better understanding of lay readers in the work of church extension, said that the office of reader in the Episcopal Church was established in 1855, by the action of the convocation, it was revived. There are now in the Church of England and her colonies about 10,000 licensed readers, making 12,000 in the Anglican communion. These men are engaged in holding services at points which cannot be reached by priests, and many of them are permitted to deliver addresses, expound the Holy Scriptures and to exhort.

The organization of readers for missionary work began in the United States in Long Island in 1886. The diocese of Pittsburgh organized a readers' league in 1891, and the Western New York shortly afterwards. In the league at Buffalo there are fifty-five readers who hold service at nineteen points, regular and irregular. The organization of readers in process of formation at many other places. Throughout the church there is a strong interest for the better use of lay readers in the aggressive missionary work.

The question was discussed by Rev. B. W. Taylor, M. C. Dotter, A. S. Clark and the bishop. Wednesday morning there was a celebration of the holy communion at 10 o'clock, the Rev. W. H. Ramsey presiding, and the Rev. W. R. Taylor, secretary of the convocation, was with a message of fraternal regard to the Presbytery convention then in session at St. Paul's church, and the cause of Christian unity would be promoted by their deliberation.

CLEVELAND.

He Writes a Letter About His Principles.

What He Thinks About the Monetary Standards—He Does Not Wish to Be Arraigned by the Farmers or Mechanics.

By Telegram to The Times.

ATLANTA, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) In reply to a letter from Gov. North, asking the President to give his position on financial matters, Mr. Cleveland has sent the following: "Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Sept. 25.—Hon. W. J. North, My Dear Sir: I hardly know how to reply to your letter of the 15th inst. It seems to me that I am plainly on record concerning the financial question. My letter accepting the nomination to the Presidency was written in a condition of mind that I was in a condition to express my views on the monetary question in an extraordinary session, appears to me to be very explicit. I will not now repeat what I said in that connection, but will just make it in the least degree answerable to any laborer or farmer in the United States for another thing in my mind. I am in a condition to express my views on the monetary question in a dollar which he has received for a full dollar's worth of the product of his toil.

"I do not want our currency to be such a character that all kinds of dollars will be at an equal purchasing power at home, but I want it to be such a character as will demonstrate abroad our credit and good faith, thus placing it upon a firm foundation and credit among the nations of the earth. I want financial conditions to be such a character as will give us a safe and reassuring that those who have money will spend and invest it in business and new enterprises, instead of hoarding it. You give me a fright by calling it foolish and unreasonable, and you cannot prevent a frightened man from hoarding his money. I want a currency that is stable money, and a condition of confidence that will keep it in use. Within the limits of what I have written, I am in a position to express my views on the proper place in our currency can only be fixed by the readjustment of our currency legislation and the inauguration of a constant and comprehensive financial scheme.

"I think that such a thing can only be entered upon profitably and hopelessly charged with the burden of the situation. I am, therefore, opposed to the free and unlimited coinage of silver by this country alone, and independent of holding it. You give me a fright by calling it foolish and unreasonable, and you cannot prevent a frightened man from hoarding his money. I want a currency that is stable money, and a condition of confidence that will keep it in use. Within the limits of what I have written, I am in a position to express my views on the proper place in our currency can only be fixed by the readjustment of our currency legislation and the inauguration of a constant and comprehensive financial scheme.

"Yours very truly,
"GROVER CLEVELAND."

ROBBERS ROBBED.

An Interesting Confession by One of the Guilty Parties.

MARQUETTE, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) George Laliberty made a full confession in the Mineral train robbery, at Houghton, this morning, on a preliminary examination. He said that King, Butler and himself stopped the train and he ran the engine while King and Butler robbed the express car. The money was taken to Laliberty's boarding-house at Houghton and placed in a trunk checked to Marquette. Laliberty came down on the same train, and gave the trunk check to Ed Hogan. The trunk was delivered to the house of Laliberty's father, and the next morning was found to have been broken open and all but $1100 abstracted.

Laliberty also swore that Ed Hogan told him his brother, Demick, the express messenger, knew that the robbery would take place. King, Butler, Laliberty and the two Hogans were held for trial in $10,000 bonds each. Laliberty denied knowing what had become of the money, and who robbed the robbers is still a mystery.

WHITNEY'S STAND.

What He Thought of the Appointment of Van Allen.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(By the Associated Press.) Hon. W. C. Whitney this evening made public a letter in reply to certain allegations connecting him with the appointment of B. J. Van Allen to the Italian mission. The letter is addressed by the president under date of June 20, and is in part as follows: "I made it clear to everybody in the campaign that I would assume no obligation, tacit or expressed, to offices or appointments. Van Allen is supported and I sincerely hope the malicious stories which found their way into print will not affect him adversely. There is no obligation upon you to appoint him to any office, but there is an additional reason for appointing him, that is the result of a very patriotic, generous and cordial support in the late campaign, when friends were few, and the odds were great."

FIVE MORE WILL GO.

Good Work in the District Court.

The Deportation Mill Goes Mer- rily On.

All Those Sentenced Yesterday are Highbinders.

The Suspicious Connection Between Merchants and Lottery Dealers Calls Forth a Stern Rebuke from Judge Ross.

Nine Chinamen were on trial in the District Court yesterday. They were all from this city, and had been arrested at the instance of the police department as highbinders of a vicious and dangerous sort. Four of these Mongolians were discharged and five were deported.

Lo Yick's case was the first considered. Detectives Auble and Harris testified that Yick was known principally as a vendor of lottery tickets. The Chinamen, on the other hand, offered evidence showing that he was a merchant. In the prosecution of his business he found it necessary to buy exchange on Hong Kong, and two officers of different banks testified that Yick had transacted such business with them. Then several Chinamen were examined and swore positively that they had never dealt in the ubiquitous lottery tickets, notwithstanding the city detective's direct statement to the contrary. The evidence was very conflicting, but the court ruled in favor of the defendant and he was discharged.

In the case of Gim Kwai and Wong Poo the evidence was very similar to that of the first case. The police officers were sure these heathens were lottery ticket "fends," but the other hand, the same testimony was forthcoming that they were merchants. They were discharged.

Wong Sie Coey not only convinced the court that he was a merchant, but that he was also the agent of a San Francisco loan company. He said he loaned money to his brother merchants at various rates of interest, all the way from 10 to 20 per cent. This Chinese Shylock was also discharged.

Things were going along right smoothly thus far. The defendants smiled their delight while the array of talent, whose peripatetic had rendered their release possible, were also pleased at the results obtained. The crowd of onlookers, whose daily presence in these cases were beginning to lose faith in the deportation law, when the defense went just a peg too far.

Kong Wing, a likely-looking cut-throat, yet, withal, a very slick appearing individual, was alone going to prove his case. He testified that he was a merchant, but that he had been indicted in lottery tickets, but that he (the witness) had purchased these illegal commodities from said Kong Wing. Then he defended endeavoring to try a new tack and prove Wing to be a drug merchant. In these cases were beginning to lose faith in the deportation law, when the defense went just a peg too far.

But Judge Ross did not understand it. He said, only one thing is plain to me, and that is, you are all indicted in lottery tickets. The court then intimated to the attorneys for the defense that, while he was unwilling to do without deportations in cases where the evidence showed the defendant a merchant, yet if it should later transpire that the court had been imposed upon, he would make a summary disposition of the whole matter. Before any objections or apologies could be offered, the court ordered the midday recess.

The afternoon session was short, sharp and decisive. Kong Wing was ordered deported. Hi Chung, Yim Ching, Wong Hin and Quan Fong Sing, four merry highbinders, who tried to dabble in lottery tickets, were tried in short order, and in each case the sentence was deportation. The proof in each case was absolute, and practically no defense was attempted. The deportations of the entire cases on the calendar for the day, and the court announced an adjournment until Friday, September 29.

The Executive Committee was given power to take charge of the furnishing of the rooms, which are to be ready for the holding of the next meeting.

The club has been in receipt of many applications from proposed members and active members, and has now a long list of such upon the roll for approval.

Communications with reference to the club in the future should be addressed to the secretary and treasurer, W. P. James, Times office.

Crescent Avenue Improvement.
W. T. Henry, a Crescent Avenue property-owner, called at the Times office yesterday and said that he desired to correct an impression that had been gathered from an article in yesterday's paper. The article in question stated, in reference to the cost of engineering and inspectors' fees in connection with the sewerage of Crescent Avenue, that "from the City Engineer's office yesterday it was learned that the cost for the work was $35.50." Mr. Henry stated that he should be understood that the cost for engineering and inspecting had been $140, as he had stated at Monday's session of the City Council.

In explanation it should be said that the item of $35.50 mentioned covered the expenses for engineering work, but not for the inspecting.

And Still They Come.
Capt. McKee and the East Side Police force are kept busy these days compiling a census of the "box-car tourists" as they arrive in town. Most of these dead-head travelers come via the Southern Pacific from Mojave, and consequently strike this section of the city first. Thirty more of the "unemployed" got in on a freight train yesterday afternoon, and indications are that there are large numbers still on the road, the reported reopening of Colorado mines, not appearing to, in any degree, check the tide of immigration.

[SOCIAL RECORD.]
IN SOCIAL SPHERES.

One of the merriest driving parties of the season was that which, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Shields, left the home of Miss B. Dague, South Main street, Saturday evening, for the country home of Herbert Royer, near Long Beach. Mr. Royer was somewhat surprised at sight of so many guests, but proved equal to the occasion and entertained them as only a bachelor is capable of entertaining. After a social evening and a bountiful supper the party returned to this city, which they reached in the small hours of the morning.

BURNETT-BURNETT.
At high noon yesterday, in the presence of the nearest relatives of the contracting parties, Dr. Theodore L. Burnett and Miss Lulu M. Burnett were married at the residence of the bride's father, T. P. Burnett, vice-president of the Los Angeles Terminal Railway. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Chichester, D.D.

The bride and groom are both favorites in society, and have lived in Los Angeles several years. Dr. Burnett is the son of Judge Theodore L. Burnett of Louisville, Ky. He is a successful physician here, and the bride has every reason to be satisfied with her choice. The wedding was a very pretty one, the home bower of floral beauty. The bride was dressed in white, and the groom in a tuxedo. The wedding party consisted of the bride and groom, bridesmaids, groomsmen, and flower girls. The reception was held at the residence of the bride's father, T. P. Burnett.

A HIGH COMPLIMENT.
The great battleship Oregon will be launched at San Francisco October 26, and Miss Daisy Ainsworth, daughter of Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, has been selected by George Pennoyer of Oregon to break the bottle of champagne on the subject, the San Francisco Examiner of Tuesday says.

"The young lady will be Miss Daisy Ainsworth of 'Roselaw,' the country place of the Ainsworths, a few miles out of Oakland. But at heart she is an Oregon girl, born in the State of Oregon, and having the largest of her family's financial interests centered there. She is the daughter of Capt. J. C. Ainsworth, known in the West as a San Francisco banker and a capitalist, in Redondo as the maker of the place and in Oregon as the promoter of some of the State's most important enterprises."

"Miss Ainsworth herself is a charming brunette personality, a belle in the society of three cities, and a benefactress of the needy. She was born in Oregon twenty-five years ago, and came to Oakland with her father when he transferred many of his business interests to California something like a dozen years ago. In the matter of entertaining Miss Ainsworth has been an acknowledged expert in Oakland society ever since her debut. But Portland and Oregon have ever had a claim upon her, and in the midst of her social triumphs she has quietly declared 'I am an Oregon girl.' So her selection by Gov. Pennoyer to name the battleship may be considered an appropriate honor."

"Miss Ainsworth is entirely unconscious of the honor conferred upon her by the irascible Governor of her native State, and she is now on her way to the World's Fair with her party, escorted by Mrs. Orestes Pierce of Oakland. But she will return before the opening of the fair, and will undoubtedly accept the position of sponsor for the ship which is expected to deal destruction round whenever an enemy should approach the shores of Oregon."

"On the day of her departure, Miss Ainsworth is to have placed at her disposal by the Union Iron Works a handsome tug, which will convey herself and her party to the scene of the launching and afterward take them on a tour of the bay."

Y.W.C.E.T.U. SOCIAL.
The first annual meeting and social of the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Temperance Union held last evening in the prettily-decorated parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal Church. The business exercises consisted of papers pertaining to the society's work, read by Miss D. D. Wiley, president; Miss Gertrude Clemens, secretary; Miss Emma Herman, treasurer; Miss Edith Holder, and A. J. Prosser. After remarks by Eliza M. Smith, an interesting musical programme followed. This was made up of a vocal duet by Messrs. Chipron and Prosser, trio by Messrs. D. D. Wiley, man and Carly, and a piano solo by Mrs. Cook. It is the intention to hold these socials monthly hereafter.

Dr. Wong's SANTARIUM!

Four years ago my daughter, Virginia Bell, was treated by Dr. Wong for what physicians called hip disease, and had pronounced incurable after treating her for eight years. Dr. Wong's diagnosis was that she was afflicted with one of thirteen forms of cancer. His medicine effected a permanent cure in seven months time. Two years ago my grandson became blind in one eye. Dr. Wong restored his sight in three weeks. I am a LASSWELL, Savannah, Cal.

After I had been treated eleven years by six different doctors, for consumption, and they had said I could not live two months, I took Dr. Wong's medicine and was cured in seven months. I enjoy excellent health and weigh 120 pounds.

Today the race for the possession of the America's cup will be sailed.

This trophy was first known as the Queen's Cup, but its capture years ago by the famous yacht America has caused its original appellation to be forgotten. Thus far the English yachtsmen have sought in vain to recover the coveted emblem. The Vigilant now seeks to continue the unbroken series of American victories.
